

Great B and Bs for foliage viewing outside New England

DISPATCHES

Kitty Bean Yancey, USA TODAY

1 Comments

Share

(Photo: Courtesy of BnBfinder.com)

TAGS

Travel and tourism Spas

United States Washington

Washington Washington

Delaware Branson

Hamilton Delaware

England Pennsylvania

Washington Fires

Hamilton Washington

11:26AM EST October 2, 2012 - When you say "leaf peeping," many travelers think of New England.

But there is some fine foliage viewing in other parts of the USA.

Some B&Bs offer views of the hues without leaving the property. BnBfinder compiled a list of such inns, and here are some of its suggestions for rooms with a viewing (check when the foliage is expected to peak when you book, as it can change year to year):

*Lucille's Mountain Top Inn & Spa, Sautee Nacoochee, Ga. You are on a mountain with 360-degree views of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Lounge outdoors on a rocker, play croquet or badminton.

*Wildberry Lodge, Leicester, N.C. Stay in a log lodge in the Great Smoky Mountains near Asheville. The Blackberry Suite has a private porch.

*Lookout Point Lakeside Inn, Hot Springs, Ark. This 12-room lodging in the Ouachita Mountains overlooking Lake Hamilton offers leaf-peeping from private decks. Peak foliage may not be happening till late October or in November.

*ECCE Bed & Breakfast, Barryville, N.Y. It's above the Upper Delaware River, and you can see into Pennsylvania from its porches

ALSO SEE: Fall foliage could put on an earlier show this year

ADVERTISEMENT

EVERYTHING I NEED
FOR A SUCCESSFUL DAY.

COMFORT SUITES

Lots of amenities.
Lots of space.

by ChoiceHotels.com

Book Now

Amenities vary by location.